blooms were the decorations at one of the most charming afernoon functions ever given in the city, when Mrs. David Keith threw open her beautiful home to two or three hundred guests on Thursday. Wild mustard, the dainty milkweed flower and other blooms of the near hills were in abundance, with larkspurs, bachelor buttons, marigolds and nasturtians helping in the many artistic schemes of decoration. The large reception hall was in blue and gold, mustard and larkspurs being combined with bows of blue and gold ribbon on the staircase, and the many flower-filled jardineires. The same colors were used in the drawingroom and an effective picture was the punch table, the bowl being sunk in a block of ice, which was draped with clusters of grapes. In the grapevines surrounding it were scattered oranges and lemons, aiding in the color idea. The library was one of the notably artistic spots, the mantel having a bed of pink and white bachelor buttons, from which rose sprays of Gypsy fillum, while from a vase at one side ascended a tall spray of the fillum—its long fronds falling in a filmy cloud over the mir-ror. Vases and jardineires of the ror. Vases and jardineires of the flowers stood about the room. The diningroom had a striking combination of blue and green, which harmonized with the prevailing tint of the room. The mantel and sideboard held vases of wild parsley and bachelor's buttons, while wall-pockets hung about the room, filled with the same flowers, and from the chandelier were suspended baskets of them, the chandelier being festooned also in the blue and green. The most elaborate affair ever given at the Country club was the dancing party on Wednesday night, given by Samuel Newhouse, in honor of Miss Alice Goodwin. The grounds were bril-liant in myriad electric globes, and Japanese lanterns, strings of them lin-ing the walks and lawns. The archway over the entrance was studded with them, and the effect throughout was most beautiful. Navajo blankets and rugs were strewn on the lawn, and with the chairs made cosy nooks for the guests, while the veranda was also attractively arranged, lemonade being served here throughout the evening. The dancing floor was laid on the east side, and an orchestra rendered delightful music. The scene, with the myriad young girls in their dainty summer gowns, was a charming picture, and the event will be long remembered by those present. The host and guest of honor were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Henry Irwin, Mrs. William H. Cunningham, Mrs. Albert E. HE PUBLIC should not accept some advertisers exaggerated statements without some element of proof. Our constant effort is to prove to the buying public, by the prices we quote, that our store presents greater opportunities for proftable buying than any other in Zion. Our recent purchase of the Lyon & Co. stock and fixtures for 68 per cent of the wholesale cost, makes it possible for us to sell the $36,000 worth of jewelry and kindred wares at wholesale prices and still net us a good profit on our investment. We are more than satisfied with these prices, and the thousands of buyers we are having prove to us that they know and appreciate the values we are giving.

Our sales have been very large and scattered promiscuously through the stock, and to concentrate the buying for the coming week, so as to empty the big wall cases now occupying the center of our store so that we may sell them, we will make a final sweeping cut, on all CLOCKS, CUT GLASS and SILVER-PLATED HOLLOW-WARE, bought of Lyon & Co., of
